INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE

CONSUMER PROTECTION IN A CIRCULAR ECONOMY

In recent years, policy makers at various levels are discovering the concept of "circular economy" and are increasingly proposing strategies and legal instruments to support the transition from a linear economy towards a more circular economy.

Against this background, the aims of this conference are: first, to explore the "circular economy" concept and strategies from an interdisciplinary perspective, and, second, to identify and critically assess "circular economy" legal instruments in various steps of the value chain and with regard to new economic models, all of this with a particular attention to the most pressing consumer protection issues.
